

State May Share 'Crossing' Cost

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission Thursday turned down a Highway Department request that it be eliminated from liability for a share of costs of keeping open a railroad crossing, known as Gravel Place Crossing in Stroud Township, Monroe County.

The commission said the Highway Department may have to bear part of the costs of keeping open the Gravel Place grade crossing on Stokes Mill Road.

The department claimed the road was dropped as a state route in 1933.

It said it is no longer responsible for any part of its maintenance since it was designated Township Route 670.

The Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce urged the PUC to keep the crossing open as an aid to area industry after hearing the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad plans to close it.

Little Rock Residents Aid Segregationist Leader With $200,000 Property Pledge

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Three Little Rock residents pledged $200,000 in property Thursday as bond for a segregationist leader charged in connection with Labor Day bombings here.

E. A. Lauderdale, 48-year-old lumber dealer and director of the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, had been under $50,000 bond since his arrest Wednesday night.

J. D. Sims, 35-year-old truck driver also charged in the bombings, remained in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Both men were scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court Thursday but the cases were passed until Monday at the request of Prosecutor J. Frank Holt. Judge Quinn Glover refused to reduce the bonds which originally were set by Holt.

Names

Property pledges for Lauderdale's bond were made by Franklin P. Sipes $100,000; R. A. Cox $50,000, and G. C. Evans Sr. $50,000. Pledges totaling $100,000 would have been ample under a requirement that property bonds be double the amount of cash bond.

Lauderdale and Sims are charged with destroying property by explosives.

Three bombs exploded Monday night, damaging the Little Rock School Board building, the business office of Mayor Werner C. Knopp and a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley. No one was hurt.

U. N. Votes Approval Of Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (AP)—The U. N. Disarmament Commission Thursday voted a unanimous welcome to the Big Four plan to resume arms talks in a new 10-nation body in Geneva early next year.

The action came after a threatened small-nation attack on the proposal was averted by intense diplomatic efforts behind the scenes. The vote brought to an unexpected close a meeting of the 82-nation disarmament commission. It had been expected to last two or perhaps three days.

Resolution

The resolution which won the solid support of the commission was sponsored by seven nations. It welcomed the decision of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France to set up a new committee for the next round of arms talks, but declared the primary responsibility for disarmament rested with the U. N.

Original reports of the Big Four plan last month touched off widespread criticism. Many countries felt that the new committee lacked proper links with the U. N. and failed to provide adequate geographic representation.

Representatives of each of the four big powers sought to reassure the Disarmament Commission. They all stressed the ultimate responsibility of the U. N. for disarmament decisions.

Miss Illinois, New York Pace Beauties

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Miss Illinois, Suzanne Ingeborg Johnson, Thursday night won the preliminary talent competition in the Miss America pageant while Miss New York State, Bonnie Jo Marquis, walked away with the swimsuit award.

For her talent, Suzanne, a brunette, sang "Hello, Young Lovers" from the play "The King and I."

Bonnie Jo, a 19-year-old shapely Ithaca College sophomore, was an eye-pleasing sight as she paraded down the Convention Hall runway in a yellow swimsuit. She is 5 feet 9, weighs 128 pounds and measures 37-24-36.

Tunkhannock Native Dies

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—The death Wednesday of a Pennsylvania Air Force officer has been ruled suicide by Coroner Jennings Cauthen.

The coroner said that Capt. Harold E. Wiggins, 38, a native of Tunkhannock, Pa., had connected a hose to the exhaust pipe of his automobile and then run it into the car.

Recent Death

Mrs. Ethel Stitzer, 83, of Tannersville, died at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday in Allentown Hospital. Page 13.

Chevrolet Unveils New Rear-Engine Small Car

DETROIT (AP)—Chevrolet unveiled its new rear-engine Corvair Thursday and called it the answer to America's need for smaller, special-purpose transportation.

Edward Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, said suggested factory list prices will start at $1,810, exclusive of all taxes and handling charge.

With such charges added, the car will deliver in its home Detroit area for just under $2,100. The price will be slightly more in sections of the country where transportation charges are higher.

The basic list prices run up to $1,920 for the deluxe sedan. One body style, a four-door sedan, in a standard and deluxe series will be offered when the car goes on sale Oct. 2. A two-door sports coupe will become available in both series shortly after the first of the year.

President Seeks True Peace Talks

Eisenhower Hopeful Of Real Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday night called on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to bring constructive suggestions for settling East-West problems with him on his trip to the United States next week.

The President told a nationwide television-radio audience that serious exploratory efforts in his Washington talks with Khrushchev could lead to a Big Four summit conference.

Sincere preliminary efforts, Eisenhower said, "may reveal new opportunities for rational progress toward removal of some of the causes of world tensions."

If the Soviet leader comes to the United States with constructive ideas and suggestions, that could provide the basis for later responsible negotiation on the issues, Eisenhower said.

The chief executive said his talks with Khrushchev will not include any negotiation concerning subjects that relate directly to Allied or other free world interests.

Steel Strike Cuts Into Employment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Effects of the steel strike and early model changeovers in the auto industry reduced employment in August. They also prevented unemployment from declining as much as expected.

Employment sagged by 353,000 — from 67,594,000 in July to 67,241,000 in August, the Labor Department reported Thursday. This still was a record high job total for August.

Unemployment dropped by 318,000 — from 3,744,000 to 3,426,000. The decline was about half the seasonally expected reduction of 568,000.

Farm Work

Farm employment dropped seasonally by 468,000, but non-farm jobs rose 115,000 to a record 60,884,000.

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said the August data indicated that the October unemployment figure will run around three million.

If It Honored At National Convention

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Distinguished service awards were presented Thursday night to 108 members of the National Assn. of County Agents.

Those honored at the association's national convention included: Arthur E. Ifft, Stroudsburg; C. Harold Waha, Mercer; A. Sherck Frommeyer, Harrisburg; and Russell M. Smith, Tionesta.

Constructive Ideas

Eisenhower called on Khrushchev to come up with constructive ideas and suggestions. He said such "could provide the basis for responsible negotiation on the issues that divide us," and that the United States would "welcome the opportunity to study them without opportunity to study them with our allies."

A good part of Eisenhower's 15-minute talk was a report to the American people on the 13-day visit to Europe he completed last Monday.

He conferred abroad with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, French President Charles de Gaulle and other Western leaders.

Eleven Injured Critically

Seven Killed As Train Strikes School Bus

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md. (AP)—A cross-country passenger train, sparks showering from its brake-locked wheels, slammed into a loaded school bus at a grade crossing in the mountains of western Maryland Thursday. Seven of the 28 children were killed and 11 reported in serious to critical condition.

Half a dozen or so of the youngsters managed to scramble out the door the driver had hastily opened before the Baltimore & Ohio's eastbound Diplomat struck the rear section of the bus. Others trying to get out jammed toward the opening, blocking the exit.

The engineer of the St. Louis-to-Baltimore train, Otto Droege of Cumberland, said the diesel-powered train was clicking along at 50 miles an hour—the track at that point was straight and his view unobstructed—when he saw the school bus ease up on the tracks, then stall a bit more than halfway across.

Droege said he slammed on his brakes but couldn't stop in time. The railroad said the engine's speed tape showed it was going about 20 m.p.h. when it hit the bus.

Sunday Liquor Sales Receive House Boost

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sunday liquor sales in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh hotels received a boost in the House Thursday.

The Liquor Control Committee endorsed the proposal and sent it to the floor. Final action could come next week.

The legislation would permit sales between 1 p. m. and 10 p. m. with the stipulation that: The voters in each city first approve. Sales be permitted in hotels only. Only hotels in which 55 per cent of the dining room business is food would be eligible.

Fouled-Up Robbers Fail In Plans

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—A pair of would-be bank robbers held two families hostage all Wednesday night and failed in their ambitious plan for holding up a bank because they just couldn't seem to do anything right.

They started out by firing a shot accidentally as they took over the home of a bank official, then let three teen-age guests go home, and finally threw in the sponge when they found their getaway car, parked several blocks away, was missing.

The car had been towed in for safe keeping by police who found a bottle of gin in the seat and the key in the ignition.

The foray ended with one would-be robber driving off Thursday in his intended victim's car and the other asking his unwilling hosts to call the police.

Surrendered

The man who surrendered said he was Clifford William Le Gate, 41, Raytown, Mo., and that this was his first attempt at crime. He identified his fleeing companion as Al Jones, 22, alias Chuck Jones, a hitchhiker he had picked up nine days ago.

First, they entered the home of Rex Carter, vice president of the Bank of Carthage, and threatened him and his family. Three high school companions of Connie Carter, 15, were sent home with orders not to disclose what had happened. They complied.

While one of the men stood guard, the other took Carter to the home of Mills Anderson, president of the bank. Anderson and his wife were then brought at gunpoint to the Carter home.

Here all five of the hostages were herded into a bedroom.

The crossing was marked by a flashing red light and bell. Both warning devices were operating, the B&O said.

Phyllis Paugh, who lives near the crossing, was getting her children ready to catch the bus. She heard a loud crash.

"I looked out, and it was the most horrible scene you can imagine," she said. "Some children were running and crying and some just walking around dazed."

Within minutes every ambulance, station wagon and car in the area were on hand.

Campbell told authorities that as his bus—it belonged to him, and he

PRIVATE schools for white students were opened Thursday in a Virginia county with no provision made for educating 1,700 Negroes.

The answer in Prince Edward County to the U. S. Supreme Court ban on school segregation was termed the most serious development so far in the integration controversy by Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of welfare.

In Tennessee, the first Negro students in the history of Memphis State University were registered in a surprise action five days ahead of registration of 4,300 white students. Dean R. M. Robinson advised the three boys and five girls to stay off the campus until classes open Sept. 13.

Chief Counsel Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy resigned Thursday as chief counsel to the Senate rackets committee.

The resignation, effective Sunday, was announced Thursday after the committee tentatively wound up its long investigation mission.

Kennedy, 33, told reporters he plans to write a book about the rackets committee. He said it also would discuss problems faced by congressional committees generally.

Friends said they expected him to join the political staff of his brother, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Reserve Unit Increases Discount Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board Thursday raised its discount rate to four per cent—the highest level in 29 years.

The increase from 3½ per cent will go into effect Friday at seven of the 12 reserve banks, those in New York, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas and San Francisco.

The other five are expected to adopt similar increases shortly.

The discount rate is the interest charged member banks when they borrow from the reserve system.

The board's action had been expected because other short-term interest charges have risen sharply during the past month.

For example, the rate on three-month Treasury bills has increased since early August from just over 3 percent to nearly 4 percent.

The move also reflected the central bank's determination to discourage needless borrowing which could add to inflationary pressures.

Dad Admits Beating Son To Death

NEW YORK (AP)—A drunk father Thursday blurted out an admission that he beat his four-year-old son to death, then cuffed the small body in a suitcase for 36 hours before dumping it in a trash can.

The nude body of the little boy, Jeremiah Slattery, was found early today in the trash can in the Rockaway Beach section of Queens. Later, the child's 28-year-old mother wept as she identified her son.

Senate Backs Industrial Plan

HARRISBURG (AP)—Creation of eight privately financed corporations to promote industrial development in Pennsylvania was unanimously approved Thursday in the Senate.

The regional corporations would establish a source of capital and credit which would not otherwise be readily available for assisting new business and industry to locate in the Commonwealth and to aid in the expansion of existing business activity.

Nehru Ready To Talk With Reds

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday Red China can't push India around in their frontier dispute, but "I will always try to find a way to a peaceful settlement."

Against the backdrop of a bristling exchange of charges of aggression which the Soviet Union has urged the two to settle peacefully, the Indian leader offered one concession to the Peiping government of Premier Chou En-lai.

Nehru said he is prepared to agree to make Longju a no man's land—cleared of the forces of both sides—until its position is clarified by negotiation.

Longju is the isolated post which Chinese soldiers seized two weeks ago in a skirmish with Indian border guards. The Chinese have warned India against trying a counterattack.

This is the fifth increase in the discount rate since the reserve board adopted a policy of tightening credit after the 1958 business recession. During the recession, the rate went as low as 1½ percent.

Public Works First Loss For President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress snapped President Eisenhower's unbeaten veto string Thursday to give Democrats a resounding late-inning victory.

With heavy Democratic majorities in control, the House and Senate overrode Eisenhower's veto of a second pork barrel public works money bill—the first time they've been able to enact legislation over a veto in the more than six and one-half years of his presidency.

At the same time, the House completed congressional passage of a third-round housing bill shaped to meet most of the objections that caused Eisenhower to reject two earlier bills in this field. Both those vetoes stood up. The President is virtually certain to sign this third-round bill.

These developments came as Congress moved ever closer to adjournment of a session that began eight months ago.

Congressional leaders aimed to wind up work next Monday if possible. But the threat of a possible all-out battle over civil rights hung over these plans.

Even with Thursday's setback, Eisenhower had an impressive 145-1 veto score over Congress, which has been dominated by the opposition Democratic party for all but two of his years in the White House.

House Action

The House acted first on the public works bill by a 280-121 roll-call vote—12 votes more than the two-thirds majority required to override.

The result was greeted in the House by an exuberant burst of cheering from the Democrats and silence from the Republican side.

Less than two hours later, the Senate completed the overriding action by a 72-23 vote, or eight more than two-thirds.

Unlike the House, there was no applause or other demonstration in the Senate, although a patter of clapping was heard from packed spectator galleries.

Only last week, the House—by a single vote—upheld Eisenhower's veto of an earlier public works bill carrying funds for hundreds of navigation, flood control, reclamation and other projects all over the nation.

Earlier Version

The bill passed over Eisenhower's veto totals $1,155,309,000—about 30 million dollars less than the earlier version. But it retains 67 new projects Eisenhower opposed—the same 67 projects which moved him to reject the previous bill on grounds it would open the way to massive spending in future years.

By contrast with the dramatic action on the public works bill, the billion-dollar compromise housing measure was passed by the House on a perfunctory voice vote. The Senate had passed it 86-7 Wednesday.

The compromise, less expensive than the two earlier measures Eisenhower rejected, furnishes authority for a variety of government housing programs. A key section gives the Federal Housing Administration another eight billion dollars in authority to insure home mortgage loans.

One important piece of business yet to be disposed of by Congress is a bill to allow a higher interest rate on Series E and H savings bonds.

Senate-House conferees met for an hour Thursday in an effort to compromise differences, but afterward House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said it looks to him like an impasse, at least at this point.

The House passed a bill which would allow the Treasury to lift the current 3½ percent ceiling on these bonds to whatever rate it wishes.

The Senate version of the bill would fix a ceiling of 4½ percent but would allow the Treasury to use a lower rate. The Eisenhower administration opposes the Senate proposal.

Discovery

Hours after the discovery and miles away in the Bronx, the father, John, 38, a warehouseman, was seized by police as he staggered drunkenly about a tenement rooftop. Officers had to pour black coffee into him to make him coherent.

They quoted Slattery as saying he struck the boy and beat his head against a wall last Tuesday afternoon because the youngster annoyed him by fooling with the burners of the gas stove.

Slattery had been left alone with the boy while his wife took their other children to a park.

HOWARD SEBRING has purchased the Arthur H. Richardson garage at 39 N. 10th St., Stroudsburg. The sale price was not disclosed.

Richardson will remain with the firm as an employee. The transaction was effective Aug. 25.

Employment

Sebring, prior to taking over the business, was employed by Tucker Chevrolet Co. Richardson lives at 457 N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Sebring live in Tannersville. Howard attended Pocono High School. He is also a veteran of Army service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Sebring.

VFW Schools Scheduled

FIVE members of Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will attend the first in a series of three regional VFW instruction schools at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Scranton Post 25.

They are George Straka, 20th District commander; Robert Brinn, local post commander; Robert Hachtman, membership chairman for the post; Frank J. Weller, Monroe County Veterans Affairs officer, and Charles Neville.

Louis G. Feldmann of Hazleton, national VFW commander in chief, and John J. Pipardo, Easton, state commander, will head the school.

The purpose is to acquaint post officers with national and state VFW projects for the year.

Dairy Takes Steps To End Problem

NEITHER Penn-Del nor East Stroudsburg Sewage Co. have received any word that the State Sanitary Water Board may shut them down soon.

Board Attorney Robert J. Trace said in Harrisburg Wednesday that an East Stroudsburg dairy will be closed in a few days as a chronic violator of the clean streams law. He also told Rep. Van D. Yetter, Marquette Creek, that the board will have to study further the problem of raw sewage being dumped into a stream by a privately owned sewage system.

Warning
Robert Irwin, owner of the dairy, said the board warned him July 28 to stop the flow of milky water into Sambo Creek, but added that the state has never sent inspectors to his dairy or taken a chemical analysis of the waste water.

Since the warning the dairy has installed a four-inch pipe to carry off clear waste water, used for cooling purposes, to an abandoned well, Irwin said. This will alleviate the amount of waste taken by another pipe to an underground settling bed, thus preventing the bed from overflowing into the creek, he said.

Irwin said the new pipe will be hooked up with the well soon. He added that tests of the creek water 100 feet above the dairy showed that the area was unfit for recreational purposes. "How can you pollute a stream which is already polluted?" he asked.

Irwin attributed the state decision against the dairy to Leo Achtermann, county solicitor. Achtermann bought property near the dairy for development purposes, Irwin said. The lawyer then wrote him July 3, 1957 saying he would take action against the dairy unless it immediately stopped polluting Sambo Creek, Irwin said.

Negotiations
John Gish, secretary of the East Stroudsburg Sewage Co., said the company is presently negotiating to sell its sewer lines to the borough sewer authority.

Gish said the company's 14 stockholders can not possibly build a waste disposal plant for about half a million dollars. The company's lines service the borough's business area, including S. Crystal St. and parts of N. Courtland and Washington Sts. In this area is Hughes Printing Co. and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad station, besides numerous stores.

The sewage company, organized in 1911, owns the only sewage lines in the borough. All other residents use septic tanks or cesspools.

County Studies Insurance, Jail

MONROE County commissioners discussed county home insurance coverage and renovation of the county jail yesterday.

They voted to pay for an $8,000 binder policy after Joseph H. Small, insurance broker, told them the recently completed bungalow for the home superintendent was not adequately covered.

Small said the cottage can be included in with other county buildings after the present county-wide insurance policy expires at the end of this year. He said insurance costs for the county buildings should be refigured at that time. Present rates were determined five years ago, he said.

Architect Harold T. Rinker, of Rinker and Rinker, estimated it would take two weeks and about $500 to determine the cost of renovating the county jail instead of building a new one.

Commission Chairman John R. Lesmine said such a study should include figures showing the cost to the county for keeping prisoners in state institutions because of inadequate facilities here.

Two Cars Collide In Stroudsburg

NO ONE was injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Route 611 and Broad St., Stroudsburg, at the foot of Foxtown Hill at 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

Stroudsburg police identified the drivers as Richard N. Maddox, 22, of 3718 Poppy Drive, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Winnie Baldwin, 27, Dalton, RD 2.

Crash
Police said Maddox' car southbound on Broad St., failed to stop at the stop sign and struck Mrs. Baldwin's car broadside, knocking it across the highway and into a pole at the junction of Route 90.

Investigating officers said Maddox will receive a summons for failure to stop at the sign. The Baldwin car was demolished, while damage to Maddox' vehicle was estimated at $500.

Boy Scouts To Feature Pilot Meeting

A PILOT meeting to plan an Oct. 31 merit badge counselors seminar will be held at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College at 8 p. m. Wednesday. It will be in Room Eight of the Campus Laboratory School.

The meeting is open to all officials of the Delaware Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, and is being sponsored by the Pocono District of the council.

Purposes of the October seminar are to share ideas on merit badge counseling and to require uniformly high standards of achievement by scouts and explorers to qualify for merit badges.

1,200 Tax Appeals Made In County

MONROE County Commissioners have received approximately 1,200 1959 tax assessment appeals, County Solicitor Leo Achtermann said yesterday.

The commissioners are reviewing each property in person and so far have disposed of over 100 appeals, he said. But they cannot possibly hear all 1,200 appeals in time to permit persons to pay their taxes and secure their rebates, he added.

In a prepared statement the commissioners urged all persons who have filed an appeal to pay their taxes promptly with the assurance that in so doing they will not be waiving their appeal.

The taxpayer who has appealed may pay his 1959 tax under protest, the taxing district is then compelled to segregate 25 percent of such tax in an escrow account where it will be held for refund purposes. Such an escrow is under the control of the court and cannot be used without the approval of the court.

Should an appeal be sustained, the taxpayer will receive from the respective taxing districts the refund he is entitled to.

The commissioners emphasized that even though payment is made without protest, the appeal of the taxpayer still stands and he will still be entitled to a refund in the event the appeal is sustained by either the Board of Revision of Taxes or the court.

Let's Get The Facts

A nasty situation has developed in East Stroudsburg where the electrical contractor on the new Junior-Senior High School building has been accused by four former employees of not paying overtime wages and of doing sub-standard work on various projects.

We do not pretend to know the merits of the charges nor do we have any idea what answers the contractor will have when he is questioned by the East Stroudsburg School Authority and the School Board at a meeting called for tonight.

We do know, however, that the charges are serious and must be settled immediately for the benefit of all concerned. And we can be sure that the claim that old or inferior products have been substituted for standard, approved ones raises plenty of doubts and fears in the hearts and minds of parents, school administrators and teachers.

For the safety of the children who will attend the new school, the charge must either be substantiated, and proper action taken to prevent sub-standard work being done on the new building, or exploded and the contractor given a clean bill of health to proceed with the work.

The Daily Record will not stand idly by and allow inferior products to be used in the construction of the East Stroudsburg School—nor in any other school in the county.

Nor will we condone any delays on the project for any reason. Crowded conditions of the schools make it imperative that the building be completed as quickly as possible.

We are confident the School Authority will hasten a solution to the entire matter. It is that body's prime responsibility to see that the job is done right.

Furthermore, we think the School Board should stand shoulder to shoulder with the authority in seeing the matter through to the proper conclusion. It's obvious the board will not want to pay rent for a school building that is inferior.

It's vital, too, for the contractors, architect and working people to offer their fullest cooperation in probing both sides of the controversy and in reaching the right solution.

The charge that overtime wages have not been paid is a problem that can best be investigated by government agencies assigned to administration and enforcement of the wage laws.

Above all, let's clear the air by getting to the bottom of both charges and allow the chips to fall where they may. The public is entitled to all the answers forthwith.

Opinions Of Other Editors

On Knowing The Right People

How fortunate is the judicial nominee graced by a nod from Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate majority leader. Other men named for Federal judgeships wait for months before they can get even a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee. But not Joe J. Fisher, the Johnson-backed candidate for District Judge in the Eastern District of Texas.

Judge Fisher was nominated by the President on Monday. On Tuesday morning the Judiciary Committee held a ten-minute hearing on his nomination. At noon it approved him. Wednesday he was confirmed by the Senate.

By a strange coincidence, a dozen other judicial nominees—some of them waiting for confirmation since last winter—also emerged from committee and were confirmed Wednesday. It just could be that they were held up while the Senate majority leader waited for withdrawal of a Texas nominee of whom he did not approve, and for the Justice Department to get cracking and pick a Johnson candidate.

All this might be funny if the Federal courts were not in such desperate need for new judges, and if distinguished men—among them sitting judges designated for promotion—were not made to spend months in a particularly embarrassing and difficult limbo.

The Allen-Scott Report

New Weather Detectives

Robert A. Allen and Paul Scott are on vacation. During their absence today's article is about a remarkable development in speedy and accurate weather forecasting. Titled "Coming Magic From Weather Radar," this absorbing report was written by Norman Hagen, noted meteorologist of the U.S. Weather Bureau, three days before his sudden death from a heart attack.

By Norman R. Hagen

Washington — An electronic weather detective soon will be added to the staff of 31 Weather Bureau offices to help find the hidden clues to better weather forecasts. Each of these 31 robot detectors will be able to locate and track all rain, hail and snow storms occurring anywhere with 250 miles of sky scanning antenna.

The installation of this powerful weather watching instrument means that for the first time many local forecasters will be able to observe the minute-by-minute changes in size, intensity, direction and speed of a threatening storm as it moves anywhere over a

200,000 square mile area. Called "Weather Search Radar" by the Weather Bureau, and identified as "WSR-57," these automatic and continuous recording storm detectors are already being tabbed by enthusiastic meteorologists as the "magic weather warning tool of the future."

Since June 1959, when the first of the 31 specially designed weather search radar sets was installed at Miami, there is growing evidence that the outstanding performance of the new model weather radar equipment will bring revolutionary changes in weather reporting and forecasting services.

Miami radar experts already have observed and tracked the fascinating generation-to-dissemination sequence that is characteristic of thousands of rain-shower clouds as they are carried along by the winds over southeastern Florida.

The new radar's remarkable precision often makes it possible for a trained weather analyst to predict an hour in advance almost the precise minute with rain will begin falling on any specified street or beach area within a hundred miles of the Weather Bureau's office.

Good News From Abroad

The Pennsylvania Story

School Of Politics

(Columnist Mason Denison is on vacation. Top-ranking state officials are serving as "guest columnists" during his absence. Guest columnist today is State Treasurer Robert F. Kent.)

By Robert F. Kent

Harrisburg — The most promising recent development toward building good government through a sleeping-giant segment of our everyday society is the new interest business and industrial leaders are taking in the science of politics.

They are attending "schools" where candidates express their opinions then allow themselves to be questioned. Candidates, on the other hand, often question the businessmen.

Here business learns public affairs, and government officials learn more of the minds that lead industry.

Most important in this trend of businessmen and women developing interest in public affairs, is the fact that this interest will grow into the desire to take personal action in the campaigns to nominate and elect good candidates for offices ranging from village squire to governor or president.

In a recent visit to the General Assembly by a large group of businessmen it was recognized that "it was important to see, first-hand, how the men operate whose actions every two years affect our lives so much."

One business leader found the experience "chaotic," but noted that to a novice "a day at the Legislature can be pretty confusing."

Yet, it is the Legislature that must find ways and means to raise millions of dollars and then spend those millions for things the individual cannot afford to do for himself.

And the individual votes for each member of the Legislature, entrusting him with the knowledge and wisdom required to approve actions on appropriations of our tax-monies, and to make laws best suited to our every-day living. Since industry and management are called upon to pay a great bulk of our taxes there is every reason in the world for businessmen and women to take a full-time interest in government — in political actions.

A year ago a successful businessman left his office to campaign for the office of governor. He was nominated over a seasoned politician. But that businessman lost in the general election.

Business-management industry and civic-minded persons who had pleaded for months for a business-trained mind to become a candidate, failed to support the Republican Party that was supporting the nominee who was their candidate.

It should have been a severe lesson to those who have charge over the working day of millions of men and women who are the voters. But have they learned that lesson?

It is the popular opinion that business and industry leaders are solid Republicans. If that is so, there is no direct evidence today. Results of drives to register voters can be an illustration, for where Republicans may lead, they lead by a very slight margin.

If business — if it is Republican, as alleged — wants efficiency and sound business methods in the operation of their local, state or national governments, then business must see to it that their employees are registered to vote and that they vote with a sensible attitude toward government.

Here and there, in Pennsylvania, we learn of an industry actively engaged in pressing its personnel to register and vote. We must have more — much more — of this sort of political activity or bear the consequences of ever increasing taxation and haphazard spending of public funds to gain favor for re-election.

It is my fervent hope that any industry-political schools may soon graduate their students and that their diplomas will encourage all concerned to put their knowledge to practical use.

Abigail Van Buren

He's Cheap, For Sure

Dear Abby: What do you think of a man who thinks nothing of losing fifty dollars on a horse race but raises the roof when I order a three-dollar dinner in a cafe? That's my friend.

I am 60 and he is 62. I've been widowed since 1938 and he lost his wife last year.

He invited me out to dinner and I suggested a nice place to eat. When we go there he looked at the menu and said he wasn't going to stay there and pay those kind of prices. We already had a cocktail so he paid the waitress for the drinks and I left the tip. He wanted to take me to a cheaper place than $2.95 for pork chops? But I asked him to take me home. I haven't seen him since. Should I call and apologize or forget about him?

HAZEL

Dear Hazel: Forget him. You're lucky he showed his colors early in the game. How would you like to be married to a penny-pincher like this one?

Dear Abby: I have a sister who carries a rabbit's foot in her purse for luck. Once she couldn't find her purse and she wouldn't go out of the house until she found it.

Her luck has been anything but good lately. She lost her job and her husband found another woman.

She still thinks that rabbit's foot will bring her good luck. Can you say something in your column to change her mind?

WILLIE MAE

Dear Willie Mae: The rabbit's foot your sister carries was certainly bad luck for the rabbit. This should settle it.

Dear Abby: I am 24 years old and recently had my first baby. My husband has started to call me "Mommy". My husband is 32 years old.

Abby, I just hate it. I am not his "Mommy". His mother is living and she is about 60. Maybe this shouldn't irritate me the way it does, but I can't help it. I have told him to quit calling me "Mommy" but he says it just slips out. Now, what should I do?

"Anything But Mommy"

Dear Anything: Simmer down. You have already asked your husband to quit calling you "Mommy" which is all you can do. Perhaps when you address the baby you refer to yourself as "Mommy" (which is only natural). Be sure little more understanding; one day you might catch yourself calling him "Daddy".

To get Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teenager Wants To Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this paper.

Give My Regards to Broadway

George M. Cohan stands in the valley of light. His statue in the heart of Broadway gives a touch of beauty and dignity to the Big Street. He is home again — among the Main Stem constellation where he functioned as one of the biggest and brightest stars.

While strolling through Central Park he once observed: "Look at that Fifth Avenue skyline. When I started walking here twenty-five years ago those buildings weren't there. Funny thing, life—stone goes up, men go down." And now he has been immortalized in stone. Nevertheless, his rock image is not as enduring as his creative efforts. Such lulls as "Over There" and "Give My Regards to Broadway" are more durable than granite.

Jim Riley Says:

Area Native In International Book

Jack Gellinas, son of Mrs. A. J. Gellinas, of 189 Ananook St., East Stroudsburg, has been named as a biographe in the first edition of "Who's Who in Public Relations."

"Who's Who in Public Relations" is international in scope, containing the biography of most leading public relations figures both in the United States and abroad.

In the book's forward it is stated that, "In the opinion of the Board of Editors, all of whom are well known experienced professionals in the field, with a deep regard for the maintenance of high public relations standards, those names appearing herein may be considered top-ranking executives and consultants of recognized ability and professional integrity."

Gellinas, who's father was the late Andy Gellinas, who was 29 years old at the time of publication, is one of the youngest practitioners to be listed. He is public relations advisor to Mobil Oil Nigeria Limited, a West African affiliate of Mobil International Oil Co.

He is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and holds both an undergraduate and a graduate degree in public relations from Boston University, class of 1953 and class of 1954.

Before leaving for West Africa last September, with his bride, the former Barbara Ann Link of Scarsdale, N.Y., Gellinas was a member of Mobil Oil's public relations department at New York.

Van Yetter, our representative in Harrisburg, had a hot, tough day on Wednesday as the House worked through a solid day of legislation.

Dreaming of a nice cool hotel room in which to rest after the hot house session, Van was blasted with the fact that the windows had been shut tight during his absence.

Instead of cool, his hotel room was like a bake-oven.

Russell DiMarco, of Bangor, was recently named as an approved substitute teacher in the Phillipsburg school district.

The appointment was made at a recent meeting of the board.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike had only 18 minor motor accidents over the Labor Day weekend, a period of 78 hours.

There wasn't a single death during that same period.

More than 31,000,000 miles were driven by 390,233 vehicles during that same space of time.

This certainly is an outstanding safety record by the oldest super highway in the United States.

Motorist and turnpike officials are to be complimented for their showing.

George Sokolsky Says...

Are We Dumb?

Nikita Khrushchev said: "It is quite incorrect to say that propaganda against the United States is waged in the Soviet Union. I am saying this now and I shall say it also during my stay in the United States. There has never been any propaganda waged in the USSR against the United States."

"We did and we shall wage propaganda only against militarists, against saboteurs, against generals, against monopolists who urge the continuation of the cold war."

Of course, Vaude U. was a rigorous university. It demanded a great deal—but it gave a great deal to those willing to learn. Cohan once pointed out: "As a kid in vaudeville I was often on the same bill with a hoofer that I thought was the best in the world, so I spent all my time trying to match him. It was the same way with songwriting, playwrighting and acting—there was always somebody a lot better than I—and I worked to close up the gap. My notion is that the guy who thinks he's tops isn't going to do much climbing."

Reports From Congress

Hot Cargo Contracts

By Congressional Quarterly
The Labor Reform Bill passed by Congress can be divided into two main sections — the anti-corruption, "bill of rights" provisions and the Taft-Hartley amendments.

It is the T-H amendments regarding secondary boycotts, organizational picketing, hot cargo contracts and "no-man's land" where the great controversy was raised.

Congressional Quarterly clarifies these four issues and their widespread impact in a series of articles, the second of which appears below:

The hot cargo contract was an outgrowth of the Taft-Hartley "loophole" that permitted a union to ask an employer not to do business with another employer.

It was simply a provision in an ordinary contract between a union and an employer stating that the employees were not required to handle "unfair" goods (generally, goods emanating from or headed for a truck shop, a non-union shop or a sweatshop).

Alternately, or in addition, such a contract stated that the employer would not do business with an "unfair" firm and would not fire his workers for refusing to cross a picket line.

Arguments over whether hot cargo contracts were fair and reasonable largely duplicated those on secondary boycotts.

In 1958, in the Sands Door and Plywood case, the U.S. Supreme Court held that while hot cargo contracts were legal under the Taft-Hartley Act, because the employer signed them voluntarily a union could not strike to enforce a hot cargo contract. If an employer who had signed a hot cargo contract later decided to ignore it, and do business with a firm the union labeled unfair, the union could not strike to enforce the contract.

During the labor bill debate, those who favored outlawing hot cargo contracts argued that the Sands Door decision did not sufficiently guarantee that a union would not strike to compel compliance, or to get a hot cargo provision put in the contract.

If an employer negotiating a contract refused to accept a hot cargo provision, the union could simply raise its wage demands unreasonably and strike to back them up. A wise employer would be forced to propose a compromise under which he accepted the hot cargo provision and the union lowered its wage demand and stopped the strike.

Incidence of Hot Cargo Agreements — Hot cargo contracts were widespread in the garment and transportation industries. In the garment industry, where work on different parts of one garment may be subcontracted to several different firms by a jobber, the hot cargo contract took the form of a guarantee by the jobber that he would not subcontract to a non-union shop.

Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.), sponsors of the House labor bill, Aug. 13 said they did not mean to outlaw this kind of hot cargo agreement, because the making of a garment, even though its parts were made by different producers, was actually one production process.

In transportation, hot cargo contracts were signed chiefly between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (1.6 million members) and trucking firms. Since truck transportation is vital to almost every industry in the Nation, these contracts had a wide effect.

Final Provisions — The final version of the bill outlawed all existing or future hot cargo contract clauses under which an employer agreed in advance not to do business with an "unfair" or struck firm.

Two exceptions were permitted. Garment makers were allowed to sign contracts agreeing not to subcontract parts of work on a single garment to unorganized shops; and construction firms were allowed to sign contracts agreeing not to subcontract work at a joint construction site to unorganized firms.

Youth Suffers Cuts Of Arm

A 16-YEAR-OLD N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, boy suffered superficial cuts of the left arm last Saturday when he surprised a prowler in the family home.

State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks are investigating. They said the youth was unable to say whether or not he had been stabbed, but reported the prowler—a man—brushed against him in leaving the house, inflicting the cuts.

The youth told troopers the man rushed through the back yard after brushing against him. Nothing was reported missing from the home.

Police withheld the youth's name.

Area Police Probing Three Burglaries In Two Boroughs

STATE AND LOCAL police are investigating three burglaries which occurred late Wednesday or early yesterday.

The L. V. Morman and Son floor covering store at 326 Main St., Stroudsburg, was entered through the cellar and $25 taken from a cash register.

There was no other loss nor damage, according to Morman, proprietor of the store, who discovered the entry when he opened for business yesterday.

One Dollar One dollar in cash was taken from a cash register at Pat and Red's Tire Service, 289 Washington St., East Stroudsburg.

Police said a small pane of glass on a locked side door was broken to gain entry. Nothing else was disturbed.

State Police are investigating a break-in at the Tastee Freez at Bartonsville, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cobb.

Entry was gained by forcing a back door and $18 in sales tax money was taken.

Mexico Honoring Irish Soldiers

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Irish soldiers who died for Mexico in the 1847 war with the United States are being remembered officially for the first time Saturday with ceremonies and medals for their descendants.

Seventy-two Irish intellectuals and students residing in Mexico who helped form the St. Patrick's Battalion were killed, most of them in the battle of Churubusco.

Electricity, properly controlled is the world's best and cheapest servant . . . and is completely safe!

But, when people get careless, accidents can happen. Improper handling of pipe, steel rods and the like can result in a contact with power lines. When that happens, you've got trouble, real trouble!

Service can be interrupted to hundreds of electric users. Even worse, your life may be endangered.

Play it safe, don't stack pipe under power lines. And before you lift a section of pipe, look up—make sure it will clear overhead power lines by at least six feet. Treat all wires as "hot"—remember, you can't tell by looking.

Allen Roth Returns To Broadway

ALLEN ROTH, of Stroudsburg RD 3, who won national fame as a musical director in the early days of television, is now associated with David Merrick, a producer of many outstanding Broadway shows.

In his new job, Roth will serve as musical director for all Merrick productions and also as conductor for the musical hit, "Destiny Rides Again", which opened at the Imperial Theater, New York City, 16 weeks ago. Stars of the show are Andy Griffith and Dolores Gray.

Productions

Merrick produced, among others, these Broadway hit shows: "Jamaica", starring Lena Horne; "Romanoff and Juliet", "Anger by Night", "La Plume De Ma Tante", "Come Along" and "Life Of Suzie Wong."

Roth was musical director for Milton Berle during the comedian's heyday on "Star Theater", the first big show on television.

After leaving the show several years ago, Roth entered the restaurant business and opened the Charcoal Pit north of Stroudsburg on Route 611. The restaurant closed for the season on Labor Day and will reopen next Spring, Roth said.

Old Newspaper Article Found

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A newspaper article reporting a meeting between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and French Brig. Gen. Charles de Gaulle was found this week in an old German helmet that had lain in a roadside ditch for 15 years.

It was clipped from the Nazi party official paper dated June 21, 1944.

Operation Of Laurel Manor Explained To Rotary Club

LAUREL MANOR, Monroe County's home for senior citizens, provides board, room and companionship for a reasonable fee.

Speaking as a panel before yesterday's noon luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club, Mrs. Frank LaBar, Mrs. C. S. All and Spencer Cramer told the club this fact.

The capital funds drive for $50,000 for the home will end Sept. 15. Laurel Manor is well-staffed and is doing a good job, the panel said. The campaign was defined by the panel as being a moral responsibility to the elder citizens of the county.

Pledges

Money and pledges are being solicited at the present time, and only by hard work and the generosity of our citizens can the drive be successful, the speaker said.

Sincere tribute was paid The Daily Record by the panel for its kind of generous publicity.

Two types of senior citizens are being accepted by Laurel Manor. They are those who can take care of themselves, and those who need nursing care.

Laurel Manor, the speaker said, has a long waiting list of applicants. According to its constitution, the home can take 80 per cent of its guests from Monroe County, and 20 per cent from outside the county.

John A. LeBar introduced the panel, Irving C. Foltz led the singing, and Walter Sebring, club president, presided.

Lawrence Plans State Welcome

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence recently asked Pennsylvanians to give Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev a courteous reception when he arrives here Sept. 24.

Lawrence will be host to the Soviet premier at a luncheon Sept. 24th at the University of Pittsburgh.

Democrats Hold Edge In Registration

DEMOCRATS are taking advantage of Monroe County's outside registration three to one over Republicans.

Figures released by the registrar in the county commissioners' office show that 54 Democrats, 18 Republicans and one Independent voter had registered by yesterday afternoon.

Outside registration was held in Barre Township last night. Voters will also have today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. to register in the Court House.

Telephone Causes Trouble

BONN, Germany (AP) — Designers of the new two and one-half million-dollar Beethoven concert hall in Ludwig Van Beethoven's home town spared nothing to make it sound-proof and acoustically true.

At the inaugural concert before a distinguished audience the spell of Beethoven's music was broken by the jangling of a telephone. The phone was in a locked room and the key couldn't be found by frantically searching officials.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

Somewhat the sight of Freshman dinks on the street always brings a lift to the spirit. And yesterday we needed a lift. Everybody seemed to be feeling awfully old and decrepit after a night so hot and sultry that sleep, even at its best was fitful and full of dreams.

Freshmen, as you may have noticed, seem to grow younger with each year we grow older. They also seem to grow better looking—or maybe it's just the styles.

However, the sight of Freshmen and of the buses taking the girls to the college and the lights on in the dormitories and the football team practicing on the football field, also brings me annually a pang of regret.

Regret that we really don't make so much capital out of being a college town as we should. Of course, we use their money, for food, for sodas, for clothes and movies and other things essential to the life of a college student.

And we use their faculty: for club programs, to head committees, to direct choirs and head organizations and sell tickets, and add cultural tone to social gatherings.

But we don't go around bragging about being a college town, primarily because for a lot of the time we forget we are. We don't go to hear the speakers, presented free and gratis, on Thursday mornings. We don't support the plays and concerts as we should, we don't go to the football and basketball games in any large numbers, and we don't make a fuss over the students. And nobody suffers more from our neglect than we do. Personally I'd like to see a lot more pride and enthusiasm in our mingling of town and gown.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Altomose
(Lawrence Studio)

Miss Marie Keller Bride Of Russell Altomose

St. Mark's Lutheran and Reformed Church, Appenzell, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Marie Elaine Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Keller, Stroudsburg RD 3, on August 15 at 4 p. m. when she became the bride of Russell E. Altomose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Altomose, also of Stroudsburg RD 3.

Rev. Edward T. Horn performed the ceremony, before an altar decorated with lighted candles and bouquets of white gladioli and mixed garden flowers. Mrs. Jean Howell, organist, played "I Love You Truly," and "Because" in addition to traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wall-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin with long sleeves, styled with a scalloped portrait neckline and full skirt with a scalloped hemline. A tier of rhinestones and nylon tulle held her fingertip veil. She carried a white Bible with gardenias and white streamers.

Her cousin, Miss Betty Keller, of Harrisburg, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of beige Chantilly lace over green taffeta with pearl accessories, white gloves and shoes and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white pompons accented with ribbon to match her gown. She wore a green picture hat and veil.

The bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Keller, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Betty Williams, sister of the bridegroom, wore gowns of pink and blue Chantilly lace over taffeta with pearl accessories.

Pocono Garden Club To Tour Cranberry In October

Tannersville—The Pocono Garden Club met at the Tannersville fire house on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 8. Mrs. Donald Hartman presided.

Announcement was made that the next meeting would be held on Tuesday afternoon, October 13. At that time, George Learn Jr., head of the Science Department of Tannersville High School, will conduct a trip through the nationally known "Cranberry Bog." It was recommended that club members wear hiking clothes. Low heel shoes and galoshes or boots are advisable. Anyone desiring transportation to the Cranberry area is asked to be at the fire house.

After hiking through the bog, the club members will be guests at a tea at Cranberry Manor, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beseker. Hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Salzer, chairman; Mrs. Clifford Werkheiser; Mrs. George Learn; Mrs. Ted Rowe; Mrs. Wilson Lee and Mrs. Charles Hobbs.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Dale Learn, of East Stroudsburg. Mrs. Learn showed her collection of church pictures and told interesting facts about each church. She had visited many, but not all, of the churches shown.

Among the churches shown were a number of historic Philadelphia places of worship. Mrs. Learn told of how many of the churches, bells and the Liberty Bell were brought back to Allentown and stored there during the Revolutionary War.

They carried bouquets of pink carnations and white pompons and wore matching headpieces. The three gowns had been made by the bride's mother.

DeAnna Altomose, niece of the bridegroom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Altomose, of Brodheads, was flower girl and John Scott Stettler, a cousin of the bride, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stettler, of Fullerton, was ring bearer.

Martin Altomose served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Carl Altomose, brother of the bridegroom, and William Williams, brother-in-law.

A reception for 300 guests was held at the Lily Pond Lodge, Saylorsburg. It was decorated with white bells and pink, green, white and blue streamers. Music was furnished by the Seldonaire.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a gown of yellow nylon chiffon with white pearl accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride was graduated in 1959 from Pocono Twp. High School, Tannersville. The bridegroom attended Chestnut Hill High School, Brodheads, Pa. They are making their home with the bridegroom's parents.

Miss Raeder Engaged To L. J. Bolmer

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Raeder, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Marie Raeder, to LeRoy J. Bolmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bolmer of Washington, N. J.

Miss Raeder is a student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Bolmer, who was graduated from the local college is now serving in the U. S. Army.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. William Joseph Bickford

(Lens Art)

Bickford-Snyder Wedding Held At Trinity Church

Bangor—Miss Betty Ann Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman T. Snyder, of Bangor, became the bride of William Joseph Bickford, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bickford, 14 Lobb Ave., Pen Argyl, on September 5 at 2 p. m. at the Trinity Union Church, Wind Gap.

Rev. Richard Druckenbrod performed the ceremony. Mrs. Marion Lewis was organist and Mrs. Barbara Kessler was soloist.

A reception was held at the Stockertown Memorial Hall, Stockertown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk organza with a sabrina neckline with jewel and lace trim, and a bouffant bell-shaped skirt trimmed in paillettes ending in a chapel train. With it she wore a veil of silk illusion draped from a queen's crown. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Shirley Snyder, of West 24th St., New York City, was maid of honor. She wore a street length gown of pure silk in a hyacinth shade, with a matching headpiece with a short veil. She carried a cascade of yellow and lavender pompons.

Miss Karen Bickford, of Pen Argyl, and Miss Beverly Bishop of Bangor, wore pure silk gowns of lavender with matching headpieces and also carried cascades of yellow and lavender pompons.

Connie Bickford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bickford, of Wind Gap, was flower girl. She wore an orchid dress with a white overskirt and matching headpiece and carried a miniature cascade bouquet of the same flowers. Her brother, Earl Bickford, was ring-bearer.

Edward Lugg, of 201 West Pennsylvania Ave., was best man. Ushers were George Bickford, of Pen Argyl, James DePhamphillis, of Bangor, with James Hower, of Easton, serving as acolyte.

Wirt D. Miller's hi-lights

It's back to school . . . and thousands of little ones will be from "under mother's feet" for a little while each day . . . But don't forget, Mothers, they'll be back each day around 3:30 . . . and they will be hungry as little bears. Be prepared . . . be sure to have enough Jams . . . Jellies . . . Peanut Butter on hand to quiet those ravenous appetites fill the regular evening meal. WIRT D. MILLER, 726 Main Street, Stroudsburg, reports that most "kids" like SMUCKERS Jams and Jellies . . . of which there are 20 different kinds . . . some of the more popular ones like apple, grape, cinnamon, pineapple, peach, strawberry rate high on the younger set's "snack list." So mothers, check your "goodies shelf" today and if your out or low . . . Call HA 1-5720 and have replacements sent up immediately. "the troops MUST be fed."

The Wyckoff Shopper

The Wyckoff Shopper

I hate flies. Usually I hate them with a milky, watered-down hatred that comes nearer being a very strong dislike. Right now I hate them with a hatred so intense it defies description. And with very good reason! We have, at the moment, a fly in our advertising department that has the rather absurd idea it was meant to be a pet. It drifts back and forth over the desk, never seeming to light anywhere . . . it tempts fate as it weaves in and out among the flying keys of the typewriter . . . and when I was applying perfume to my ear lobes, it buzzed around my head like an unsought endorsement for Chanel No. 5. Another hour of this and I'll be carted away in a strait jacket. In the meantime, I intend to visit our notions department and see what Amy Ellenberger offers to exterminate winged pests. Like most homemakers, I just hate bugs . . . bugs with wings, and bugs with fuzz . . . bugs that "is" and bugs that was . . . bugs that "sing" and bugs that sting . . . bugs that don't do anything. So let us join in hymns of praise for moth balls, swatters, lamps and sprays!

After hearing on television about the excellent buy in O Cedar mops now being offered in department stores such as Wyckoff's, I visited Walter Wyckoff to see if our floor coverings department was participating in this nation-wide deal. It is! And so I invested 2.99 in a pretty chrome-mounted mop of foam rubber, with a strip of hard plastic to deal with really tough spots. This is one of those mops that need never be touched by the housewife, for they can be wrung by a handy clip on the mop head. Since investing in this gadget (and saving about a 1.00 over the regular price) I have just about the cleanest kitchen of my entire housekeeping career. It's quick, it's easy, and it's not so much work as fun!

By quarter of eight Wednesday there were quite a number of children assembled in the playground at Ramsey School. Didn't I tell you they'd arrive early? My own, who usually rushes from the house on the first throb of the last bell, was there at least twenty minutes early. (Wonder how long it will last?) And now I know why she kept saying it was a chilly morning, when the rest of us thought it was hot. She skipped out wearing her new red sweater.

Viewing Screens

AFTER A SEASON of substituting in ABC's "Cheyenne," Ty Hardin is now coming into his own in the title role of "Bronco," which premieres Tuesday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. also on ABC. . . . Walt Disney's "This is Your Life, Donald Duck," in preparation now for next season, will be an animated cartoon spoofing the Ralph Edwards' television program.

Ernie Kovacs would like to have Zsa Zsa Gabor and Peter Lawford as additional panel members on his new ABC show, "Take a Good Look." Hans Conried is already signed. . . . East Borough Automobile In Accident

EASTON—No one was injured in a three-car accident in the 300 block of Northampton St., when a driver stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake.

Easton police said Mrs. Dorothy Kieffer, 52, of 246 Bushkill St., parked her car in front of the S. S. Kresge store and as she got into the car to drive away she stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake.

The car shot backwards and struck a parked vehicle owned by Howard G. Smith, 45, Marguerite St., East Stroudsburg, pushing it into a car owned by Carmen Cuono, 121 Jackson Ave., Pen Argyl. The Smith car then went over the curb onto the sidewalk.

Teamsters On Picket PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Members of Teamsters Local 169 recently began picketing 20 Sun Ray drug stores in a dispute over a contract which expired last month. Store clerks reported to work anyway.

School Wins Fund Okay

EAST Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools have received further approval under the National Defense Education Act to be given 50 percent reimbursement for the installation of language laboratories in the new high school building.

Carl T. Secor, supervising principal, said yesterday that a total of 30 units will eventually be placed in the building.

Gilbert Dunning, a member of the faculty, has spent the past summer at Colgate University attending special courses on the laboratories.

IF YOU CONSIDER the woes of the coaches of East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg high school football machines, one would think that if the two banded together we would have a whole of a football eleven in the Stroudsburgs.

Jack Kist, over in the Cavaliers den, is blessed with fine material on the line but lacks experience in the backfield. In the Mountaineers camp of Walt Bjorn the cry is for line help to go with their veteran array of backs.

Don't worry there is no merger plan in the offing. Although we would imagine that a few broad-minded fans would like to see a blend of the Mountaineer assaulting experts and the Cavaliers up front protective unit.

Don't get us wrong, there are some pretty good boys on that Mountaineer line and fair-to-middling quality of backs in the an over-all picture of what they have and what they need. In Eastburg offense.

The coaches, in this particular instance, are just making both cases the handwriting is on the wall that experienced line material is needed by Stroudsburg and Eastburg seeks the same type of stuff for its backfield.

When it is all said and done, the boys will get the needed grid savvy as they go along but it will be shunting at times before they become of age in the sport.

What is the more harmful to a team, inexperienced backs or green linemen? Probably, it all balances out in favor of troubles when the final analysis comes.

Kist has been working with Jack Fellman at quarterback during the pre-season drills. Now Fellman didn't play at all last year and only periodically for the freshman team two years ago. However, the Cavalier junior has been showing promise in work-outs, enough to give him a shot at the first string berth. Behind him is Bob Smith, a javayee signal-caller a year ago, and Bob Herman, second string to Charley Lupin last year. However, Herman is a defensive mainstay at end and in all probability will see much service there than at quarterback.

The Cavalier running backs are sophomore Harold Myers, Pete Treible, Vic Alyn, Brian Farris, Mike Puzio, Joe Steele and Dave Hartman. Only Alyn, Treible and Myers saw any noticeable offensive duty at all last year. But up front is where Kist has high hopes of balancing the team. Anchored by tackle and captain Foster Ladlee, the Cavaliers are strong on the line. Veterans like tackle Bill Hillman, guard Denny Patti and ends Herman and Ray Uhl, and center Bill Shuppe form a nucleus which will give the Cavaliers plenty of strength.

In back of these are better than average performers like guard Vince Patella, end John Sandstrom, freshman tackle Houck Bud Stann, guards Earl Metzger, Tom Rohner and Bob Houck, and center Jack Vinyard.

Whether Kist can jell his backfield remains to be seen. But it is a foregone conclusion that the Eastburg line should hold up under fire this season.

Stroudsburg High's backfield is short on experienced quarterbacks. But thus far in the practice sessions Warren Loney and John Baylor have shown adequate ability to share the important role.

It is in the rest of the backfield that the Mountaineers appear set. Bill Schoonover, their leading scorer a year ago, is the left half and there are very few better backs in the area than the triple threat Mountaineers. At right half is Doug Wright, another seasoned performer, while at fullback tank-like Davey O'Connor covets with three years of varsity play under his belt.

Back of these Bjorn has Johnny Martin, Cleve Keller, Billy Metzger, Hank Ray, McMahon and Bobby Starnier—all unseasoned in varsity competition but with a wealth of JV background.

Stroudsburg's line is centered around letterman end Ray Davies, tackles Ron Schulman and Bob Ford, guard Al Edinger and center Bruce Imbt. Back of these five are newcomers, so to speak, like end Al Reish, Barry Bond and Bill Queenan; tackles Al Hennes and James Farry; guards Larry Hardy and Dave Shay and centers Daryl Bentson and Gary Rinker.

Bjorn must rely on the latter group to help him over the rough spots and to provide a protection for his horde of backs. Time will tell on how fast 'youth' turns into men. Bjorn hopes it will not be too long away.

Tri-Guards Archery Shoot At Bowmanstown Sunday

BOWMEN of varying classes from the Pocono Archery Association will compete in the Tri-Guard Conference Shoot, to be held at the Bowmanstown field range Sunday afternoon. The first place Pocono Archers will attempt to widen their leading margin, but will have to do so without the help of the club's top tournament shooters. Paul Dally, leading tournament shooter, will not be on the shooting line at this event. Dally will be attending the 14th Annual Field Championship Tournament at Bradford, Pa. The event is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Archery Association. In the Northeast Regional Championship Tournament, held at the Wyoming Valley Archery Range, Dally placed second.

Jack LaBar, Expert A, is expected to accompany Dally to the State event. Ray Uhl, Expert B, will represent the local club in his respective division. The local archers will be looking for range location: Turn east at Bowmanstown Bank, travel 1 mile, make three consecutive turns, entrance adjacent to Bowmanstown Rod & Gun Club.

Registration for the event will begin at 10:00 A. M. and continue till 1:00 P. M., when the shoot will get underway. The following directions are given for range location: Turn east at Bowmanstown Bank, travel 1 mile, make three consecutive turns, entrance adjacent to Bowmanstown Rod & Gun Club.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the 7-foot-2 basketball star who will be playing for the Philadelphia Warriors this winter, is registered as a horse owner. Spooky Cadet will carry his orange and black colors and will be trained by Rodney Noel of Baltimore.

Philly Golfers Pace Waite

Lead Winners In Second Round Of Play

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE—Philadelphia area golfers dominated play in the second round of the 14th annual Bill Waite Memorial Tournament at Shawnee Country Club Thursday.

Led by Jim Elliott of Villanova in the Waite Flight, Quaker City district linksmen survived defeats in six flights of the five-day event. Elliott teamed with Sam Coccodrilli, of Reading, to oust Jack Prickett, of Philadelphia, and Bryant Prentice, North Wintetka, Ill., 1 up.

Sam Jones, Wynnewood, Pa., and his partner Jim Miller of Chicago, led the way in the Waring Flight, eliminating Bill Marth, Jenkintown, and Pete Jarboe, Cape Elizabeth, Me., in the Gould Trophy competition. Jim Graybill, of Philadelphia and Pete Green, Franklin, Mich., won over Joe Brissom, Greene Point, Mich., and Tom Eagen, Shawnee, 2 and 1.

Ron Prickett, Philadelphia, and Bill Wilson, Stroudsburg, advanced in the Shawnee Flight, turning back Tom Metzger, Stroudsburg, and Bill Pullen, Shawnee, 3 and 2.

Highlight of the third day of action was a hole-in-one by Roland Gartner, East Stroudsburg High School senior. Gartner got his ace on the fifth hole, using a four iron on the 165-yard hole.

Bangor Eleven Preparing For Parkland Inaugural

BANGOR — Practice sessions have been now curtailed to after-school rehearsals, since the opening of school on Wednesday at Bangor Area Joint High School for the coming football season. Coach David Dailey Pritchard and his assistants, Dae Baker, Louis Guida and Paul Wagner have been giving the 70 some aspirants for the 1959 edition of the Slaters a busy time as they prepare for the opening game of the season under the lights of Bangor Memorial Park on Friday, Sept. 18 against Parkland.

Pritchard stated yesterday that the potential of the Slaters, eleven, until after the Parkland game will have to remain an unknown factor. He has indicated that wide open football will be the order of the day, as the winged "T" with variation seems to be the key to the fast backfield and an expected strong line.

Light Drills — So far, the Bangor mentor has avoided too much scrimmaging and with Wednesday's heat wave switched to light practice equipment to ward off any exhaustion on the part of the players. A great deal of time has been spent on play timing and play perfection in order to take full advantage of the type of offense to be mustered.

Asked why he considers the Slaters eleven an unknown quantity at this stage of the pre-game effort, Pritchard indicated that he felt the eleven was the true sense of the word and expects Parkland to provide many of the answers he has been looking for in the way of team potential. Individually, it has been felt by the Bangor coaches, that the Slaters should be tough to beat, but as a team, and how well they will be able to work as a unit is somewhat puzzling.

Yanks Terry Humbles A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Terry pitched one-hit ball for eight and one-third innings and Mickey Mantle connected for five straight hits as the New York Yankees hammered out a 12-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in their final meeting of the season Thursday. It was Kansas City's 13th straight defeat.

Leadoff man Russ Snyder got a bad-hop single in the first inning, and then Terry retired 22 men in order until Kent Hadley reached first on a passed ball after striking out. The A's got to Terry for three straight singles with one down in the ninth, but a double play erased the threat.

Mantle started his batting rampage with his 28th home run of the season in the first inning. He then followed with a single, double and two more singles before flying out to Snyder in the eighth.

Reds, Cubs Divide Two

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs kayored rookie southpaw Jim Bailey during a three run eighth inning and defeated Cincinnati 6-3 after the Reds rolled up a 10-4 triumph in the opener of Thursday's doubleheader.

It was the 24-year-old Bailey's first major league start. His brother Ed did the coaching. Jim yielded 11 hits, walked five and fanned four going seven and two-thirds innings.

MacKay Powers Aussie 'Under'

FOREST HILL, N. Y. (AP)—Barry MacKay rode his divot-digging service into the quarter-finals of the National Tennis Championships Thursday and confidently predicted: "I think I can go all the way."

The big fellow from Dayton, Ohio, overbalancing his 10 double-faults with 22 aces, smashed Bob Mark of Australia to the sidelines 6-4, 6-4, 9-7.

MacKay's explosive service—the best in amateur tennis—failed him only once, that in the tenth game of the third set when he let down temporarily. But he bounced back to crack Mark in the 15th game and then hold with four thunderbolts in the 16th.

The 24-year-old Midwesterner Friday goes against his Davis Cup teammate, Bernard (Tut) Barton of Dallas, the National Clay Court champion, and unseeded dark-horse. But MacKay feels this is just a temporary obstacle.

"The way I'm playing I think I have a good chance—I have a feeling I can win the whole show," the good-natured giant said.

Other Match — In the only other men's match, sixth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile breezed to a 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Dr. Edward Dailey of Harrisburg, Pa. The quick, scrambling South American was too steady for the tall young doctor, whose main weapon was a smashing service.

Maria Bueno, poker-faced Brazilian who won at Wimbledon and is favored here, survived a close squeak in the carryover match with Jeanne Arth, St. Paul, Minn., school teacher, finally winning 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

She was joined by fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., runnerup to Althea Gibson last year, and a pair of unseeded outsiders, 16-year-old Karen Hantze of San
